Did you know (that you don't need to know everything) ?

40 pages 21 x 24 cm
Age group : 3 and +
Topic covered : life, kindness
Rights sold : Complex Chinese, Simplified Chinese, Korean

"Did you know that you don't need to know everything? I would like you to know that in life, you'll meet more nice people than mean ones, that saying 'I'm sorry' can be of relief to the person you have hurt, but to yourself too... We, adults, sometimes forget that you don't have to know everything." A beautiful text to remind us all about the importance of letting go with the expectations we have on children.

Topics covered : time, technology, sciences

Rights available : World

Corentin lives in a building that hosts a little bit mad scientist who gifts him with a phone: an old phone just as the ones they made in the nineties, as big as a walkie-talkie and with flashy colors... In a word, an antiquity. The scientist attached a notice to the phone, but Corentin doesn't take time to read it. It is at school with his friend Berkan that he understands the true utility of this elderly thing: when pressing any key, it can stop time! The boys don't miss the opportunity and along the way they involuntarily involve Fanny, a science-passionate girl from their class, in their adventures. However, the machine quickly shows signs of weakness each time they use it, until it breaks down. Not only is the world then standstill, it also seems to slowly be dying. The three friends will have to find the cause of the phone's breakdown and how to fix it in order to save the world.

The weight of the color pink

Nathalie Lagacé

120 pages 14 x 21 cm

Age group : 11 and +

Topics covered : puberty, teenagers, growing-up

Rights available : World

Rosalie is walking in a park when she comes across three older boys. The encounter turns into sexual harassment, which deeply marks her at a time when her body is changing. Actually, everything in her life is starting to change: Anna, her best friend who now only talks about boys, the pressure brought by the adults around her, her growing breast and everything that goes with that. For Rosalie, it is really difficult to accept: she doesn't feel ready to endure what imply all of these alterations, the entry into her teenage years (even less in a woman's body) and she feels like she doesn't control anything anymore. This novel is about the small steps of this transition, the soft and enjoyable ones like the meeting with Matteo, but also the frightening and intimidating ones, like buying her first bra or fleeing the boys who harass her.
